BIOGRAPHY

Paytra was born south of Detroit, Michigan in the small town of Lambertville to her mixed-Mexicana mother and German father. She spent her childhood studying classical piano, while soaking up the music of 2000s R&B and Hip Hop that she'd later find to be the leading influence of her music. At sixteen, Paytra took the risk of a lifetime and packed up her belongings, heading to Brooklyn, New York by herself. She knew what she wanted, but with no money and a lack of experience, she faced what most young women do in the music industry: difficulty.

Since then, Paytra has been featured on MTV, Womanly magazine, Vlad TV, and Sirius XM's Shade 45 radio. Her music has been heard across the world, being placed in over 1500 playlists on Spotify and featured on Glits Magazine Mexico and 2-E3 Magazine China. From Detroit Pride to Orlando's Disney World, Paytra has toured the country performing. Paytra isn't afraid to speak her mind and go against the mold. For this reason, she's not only become known as a business mogul but a fierce symbol of feminism, strength, and power. Her music stands for just that: freedom of expression.
